

ABOUT OUR WINES

The same principles that govern our choice of ingredients inspire our selection of wines. Most wines on our list are created by small growers who cultivate the vines, pick the grapes, and steward the transformation of grape juice into an expression of time and place, captured in a single wine. These artisans work with the unique circumstances of each season and grape, rather than just making wine. Over the years, we have found certain regions and grape varieties that harmonize with the food of the Midwest and our own style of cooking. Not surprisingly, many of these are from higher latitudes like our own, which yield taut but concentrated wines with pronounced soil-derived flavors. These include noble wines from lesser-known regions, along with more famous sites and varieties.

Headings on this list first sort our wines by grape variety and then by region. If organic or biodynamic viticulture practices are important to you, please feel free to inquire about this to any member of our staff.

It is our pleasure to introduce these wines to you. We hope you will ask our staff to share their knowledge of our list; they would be delighted to answer questions about any selection that intrigues you.

SPARKLING WINE

From crisp, dry Blanc de Blancs to fuller, fruitier blends to the kiss of sweetness in Moscato di Asti, sparkling wine is always a celebration. Terrific as an aperitif, these are also some of the most versatile wines with food. We look for those that DON'T mimic Champagne.

GERMAN RIESLING DRIER STYLES

Riesling shows a remarkable range of flavors that mirror the soil and climate where it grows. Riesling wines are especially at home with dishes that possess natural sweetness and fruit acidity.

GERMANY

2015	VON WINNING Diedesheimer Kalkofen Grosses Gewachs	Pfalz	150
2017	VON WINNING Diedesheimer Kieselberg Grosses Gewachs	Pfalz	150
2014	VON BUHL Diedesheimer Kristalberg	Pfalz	75
2016	MULLER-CATOIR Burgergarten “Im Breumel” Grosses Gewachs	Pfalz	120

GERMAN RIESLING

Many German wines have a touch of residual sugar, creating a delicate balance with their natural crispness. As the wines age, this simple acid-sugar balance is replaced by a complex blend of earth and sweetness unlike that found in any other wine.

AUSTRIAN RIESLING

Austria's climates and soils create chiseled, large-framed Rieslings that often have a dense mineral component. Floral aromas and a dry richness keep the wines deep, yet lively.

ALSACE RIESLING

Alsace Riesling is typically made dry in a warmer climate, which results in more body and texture than German examples. Expect ethereal aromas followed by lemon and stone on the palate, all of which is followed by a long, rich finish.

PINOT GRIS (GRIGIO)

While Italian Pinot Grigios often lean toward a lighter style with lemon undertones, we search for those that also emphasize body and texture. Alsatian and Oregonian Pinot Gris are richer and more complex with notes of minerals and honey, tempered by a hint of nuttiness in these refreshing wines.

PINOT BLANC

Unfairly compared to Chardonnay, Pinot Blanc has much more inherent fruit and keeps much longer. Its sea-shell and apple aromas, coupled with ripe acidity and a horizontal mouth-feel make this a sure bet for vegetables, sweet-starchy flavors, and all things white.

2019	HEITLINGER Eichelbert Vineyard, Grosse Gewachs	Baden, Germany	100
2015	ADELSHEIM Bryan Vineyard	Chehalem Mountains, Willamette, Oregon	45

CHENIN BLANC

Chenin Blanc has a floral character and, when young, a delightful pear-like flavor. Underneath this floral and fruity character lie complex mineral flavors and a beeswax quality that becomes more pronounced as the wine ages. All selections are from France's Loire valley unless otherwise noted.

MARSANNE, ROUSANNE, AND VIOGNIER

Viognier is redolent with peaches and white flowers, a gorgeous match for crab and fish. Marsanne and Rousanne echo these exotic aromas, but ground them with a nutty earthiness.

PINOT NOIR

Mysterious, seductive, enchanting...no red has captured human fascination like Pinot Noir. Although it's a lighter style of red, it can be fantastically complex with flavors of cherry, herbs, and earth. Best of all is its texture, which is firm, yet velvety. Like the Riesling grape, Pinot Noir shows a diverse range of flavors depending on where it is grown and development due to ageing.

BURGUNDY

The ancestral home of Pinot Noir where it once grew wild. Burgundies tend to have higher acidity and more earth tones than their New World counterparts with significant variations among different vineyard sites.

GAMAY

Gamay is marvelous at channeling unique soil characteristics into the flavor of wine. Its lighter body yields comparisons to the Pinot Noirs in Burgundy, but in Beaujolais, its true home, Gamay shares more in common with the earthy and spicy profile of Rhone wines.

SYRAH

FRANCE

This grape produces robust wines with a distinctively peppery and red raspberry flavor. It pairs well with similarly bold dishes.

Our Syrahs from France originate from the south—in the rocky soils of the Rhone Valley and the Languedoc. They are usually peppery with flavors of game, raspberry, and earth. All are from the Northern Côte du Rhone unless otherwise noted.

SANGIOVESE

BRUNELLO DI MONTALCINO

This DOCG region takes the name of the grape, Brunello, a clone of Sangiovese. Along with Barolo and Barbaresco, Brunello is considered one of the “great growths” of Italy. The wines of this region have the longest aging requirements in Italy—five years, two and a half of which must be in wooden barrels. This vigorous and slightly bitter wine differs from Chianti in terms of being 100-percent Sangiovese, full bodied with strong tannins. Brunello, which translates to “little dark one,” is one of the most expressive wines anywhere.

CABERNET SAUVIGNON AND BLENDS

CALIFORNIA NAPA VALLEY

Out of all the new world countries where it has been transplanted, Cabernet Sauvignon has found its most prestigious home in the Napa Valley. The ocean breezes and morning fogs from the San Pablo Bay settle over the vineyards on the valley floor, such as in Oakville, and result in juicy wines with supple yet bountiful tannin. The mountainside vineyards – with cooler nights – boast darker, more concentrated fruit, with a more prevalent acidic structure. Many producers blend grapes grown in multiple sites to utilize the benefits of the different soils and microclimates throughout the valley.

Argentina's national grape has ancestral roots in Bordeaux where it is rarely seen in modern blends. In the AOC Cahors, in south west France, this grape takes top billing with Merlot and Tannat playing supporting roles.
